LIND BELIEVES HUERTA IS DONE

Reports to Wilson Indications Point to Resignation of Mexican President.

Washington, Oct. 17.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, has reported from Vera Cruz indications of President Huerta's intention to resign the provisional presidency.

Mr. Lind has advised the President that if the information that has come to him is reliable, the United States may be called upon indirectly to indicate whether it will recognize or open negotiations with Huerta's successor. Apparently various names are being suggested and acceptability to the American government is being weighed.

From Mr. Lind's report, which was filed Wednesday, it appears that Huerta's government by the United States but at the White House and state department it was declared communication had not been resumed.

Speeches in congress and other suggestions today for an armed protest over Mexico in conjunction with other nations were met by high administration officials with the declaration that such an act would impair the sovereignty of Mexico.

Sovereign Rights Sacred

It was declared today by those who know President Wilson's attitude on these questions, that no matter what emergency may arise, even though drastic measures are eventually required to compose the situation in Mexico, under no circumstances will the present administration at Washington interfere in any way with the sovereign or territorial rights of Mexico.

An unconfirmed report reached Washington today that in the conference of diplomats called by the Spanish minister at Mexico City, Wednesday, practically all those present, except the British and American representatives, recommended armed intervention. State department officials, however, said no report had reached them.

Aged Mother of Mrs. Eaton Testifies That Daughter's Jealousy Resulted in Bitter Quarrels With the Admiral

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 17.—Mrs. Virginia Harrison of Alexandria, Va., member of a prominent family of that state, was called by the prosecution today to tell about conditions in the home of her daughter, Jennie May Eaton, who is being tried on the charge of murdering her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, U. S. N. (retired), by giving him poison.

Mrs. Harrison said that her daughter manifested "mystical tendencies" towards the admiral at times. During the past four years the witness has spent much time at her daughter's home in Alexandria and she testified that she considered her "son-in-law" "always very much of a gentleman."

Her daughter, she said, seemed "unusually to believe that the admiral dabbled in drugs and was insane. Mrs. Harrison could see no signs of these things. She had seen the admiral in the past, she testified, but never de-

FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED

Engineer on the Collier Hector Passes Quietly to Death During the Night

Shortly before nine o'clock this morning H. B. Hatfield, first assistant engineer of the collier Hector, was found dead in his quarters aboard the vessel. Hatfield was as well as usual on retiring Friday night. This morning when he did not show up at the usual hour one of his shipmates went to his room and found he had passed away during the night. Following the navy regulations a board consisting of Dudley N. Carpenter of the U. S. S. Tennessee, Dr. Wheeler of the yard hospital and assistant surgeon Sheehan of the U. S. S. Hannibal were ordered to convene and determine the cause leading to his death.

Death is said to have resulted from heart failure.

INSPECTING OUR ROADS

Maine State Highway Commission After Ideas in Road Building.

The Maine State Highway Commission are making an inspection trip of New Hampshire roads and will devote today and Sunday to that purpose. The party is composed of the three members of the commission, Hon. Lyman H. Nelson, chairman, of Portland; Hon. Philip J. Deering, of Portland; Hon. William L. Ayer, of Oakland and Paul D. Sargent, the chief engineer of the commission.

The idea of the trip is to inspect New Hampshire's road system and see if any ideas can be obtained that can be used in the work to be done in Maine. The commission will pay special attention to New Hampshire's dirt roads; their style of construction, their ability to stand heavy traffic and the arrangements made for maintaining them.

DON'T WANT CHANGE.

Protest Against Third Class Mail in Parcel Post.

Protests are being circulated by the Postal Progress League against the proposal of the Postmaster General to include third class matter in parcel post. In this proposition the league sees danger to the printing, lithographic, seed and other business, which largely use this class of mail in their business. The league decries that the rate in many instances would be increased more than 100 per cent, and it would "not only place an unconscionable and needless burden upon the general business interests of the country, but would tend to drive a large part of the printing business to Canada and to Europe, whence catalogues could be mailed throughout this country" for a third or a fourth of the proposed rate.

The question of raising the rates on this class of matter is now before the interstate commerce commission for decision.

MONEY FOR LIFE-SAVERS.

Unknown Women Give $1000 for the Men of the Service.

Two checks for $500 each were received today by the life-saving service from two unnamed women in New York city who ask that the money be used as Christmas gifts for "our friends along the coast." For seventeen years the same women have annually contributed the same amount. Their total contributions for destitute and disabled surfmen, and their families now amounts to $17,000.

Each year about this time the checks come into the life-saving service. The money is distributed under careful supervision among the needy families of the surfmen.

SOCIALISTS COPY REVOLUTION FLAG

Boston, Oct. 18.—The Socialist party is having an artist make a copy of the red flag which was carried by George Washington in the battle of White Plains. This copy is being made from a flag which is at Faneuil Hall and is considered by many of the patriots as one of the real emblems of liberty, which were carried by our revolutionary ancestors. They say it will be interesting to see whether this flag will come under the ban, according to the act passed at the last session of the legislature against red flags being carried in parades.

BRYAN DEFENDS WILSON POLICIES

Claims that Currency Bill is the Most Remarkable Measure Ever Advanced and Commends New Tariff

Waterloo, Ia., Oct. 17.—Secretary of State William J. Bryan tonight spoke in defense of President Wilson's administration policies.

He defended the pending currency bill, the new tariff and the income tax and attacked the critics of these measures.

"For generations the national banks have held the government's money in return for contributions to campaigns and support of the Republican party," said Mr. Bryan speaking of the pending currency bill.

"The currency bill is the most remarkable currency measure that we have ever had," he said. "It gives the

BODY WRAPPED IN NIGHT GOWN FOUND

In Bushes and Leaves at York Harbor--Had Been Dead Nearly a Month.

The body of a baby boy wrapped in a woman's night dress, was found late Friday afternoon in a clump of bushes alongside the road in York Harbor. The bundle was discovered by George H. Donnell, who was raking over some leaves on the road side near his home on the back road, running from the railroad station to the Hotel Albion.

He noticed the white cloth partly hidden by the leaves and pulled it over with his rake, and he was horrified to see the body of a baby boy.

The baby was naked and it was apparently a full sized infant well developed. He notified the authorities and

DRIVER HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Portsmouth Man Thrown on Race Track at Topsham Fair Grounds

Charles Tibbets, of this city had a less than his friend who bought in Boston.

Tibbets started in the 2.40 class driving the fast horse Miss McClure, owned by J. H. Burton, also of this city. In the second heat a horse, agent of the Portsmouth driver, broke, and tripping over her hobbles fell, landing on the side of her head. Her driver, Edward Ireland, was thrown a distance of 25 feet. Tibbets was close by and his horse jumped over the fallen animal, cleared himself and kept her feet. Tibbets however, landed heavily on the ground. He got a bad shaking up but was otherwise uninjured. The first horse escaped with a few scratches.

TRADE IN PORTSMOUTH.

Local Man Saves $3.00 on a Suit of Clothes Purchased at Home.

The fact that for the same quality of goods you can trade cheaper in Portsmouth than you can in Boston was never more clearly demonstrated than by an incident that came to light on Friday. John Desmond was out with a new suit of clothes when he met a friend who had on an identical suit and after joking about it John inquired where he purchased and he replied at L. P. M.'s, Boston, whereupon John stated that he purchased his in Portsmouth and on naming the price Desmond had purchased his at $3.00

ARGENTINA TO SHIP BEEF HERE

Preparing to Take Advantage of Free Admission by New Tariff.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Active preparations by Argentina to take immediate advantage of the free beef clause of the new tariff law and send to the United States large shipments of beef, were reported today by Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau of animal industry, who has just returned from South America. He made the trip for the department of agriculture to study meat-packing and inspecting conditions in Argentina, Uruguay and Brazil.

A big steamship line operating between the United States and the east coast of South America has installed large refrigerating spaces for beef. Figures issued today by the bureau of domestic and foreign commerce show that whereas the United States exported $4,000,000 worth of beef and beef cattle in the first eight months of 1904, during the corresponding period this year only $1,000,000 worth has been shipped abroad.

INCH WILL NOT LOSE COMMAND

"Uranium Line Needs Men Like Him," Declares Manager Thomas.

New York, Oct. 17.—The unwell, but almost invincible Inch, of the sea which has a captain who loses his ship from being given another ship will not be applied to Captain Francis Inch of the Volturo. The officials of the Uranium line made it known today that the heroism of the young skipper, his desperate, if losing fight to save his vessel, and the brave part played in the battle, which resulted in the saving of such a large proportion of the Volturo's passengers and crew, will preserve him from the fate of many a master whose ship the sea has claimed.

"This Inch needs men like Inch," said Manager E. O. Thomas today. "He will be given another boat to command and we'll be glad to keep him in our employ."

SEVEN ENTOMBED IN FLOODED MINE

Rockdale, Tex., Oct. 17.—Seven of the eight miners caught late yesterday in the Vogel & Lawrence mine, near here, when the roof of the mine caved in and the mine was flooded, are still alive today.

They are entombed by a water barrier 50 feet below the surface, but are believed to be safe as long as their supply of air holds out. One miner was drowned outright.

An air shaft is being drilled to the miners and the mine is being pumped out as rapidly as possible. The men occupied drowning by managing to reach a slope beyond the cave-in.

Frocks for some time have been so simple in line that they require "dressing-up"—ornaments, if you please—so thinkers of dress have been so stimulated in their thinking that what there is not in the way of dainty, pretty, simple, and elaborate things such as hair decoration, neckwear, scarfs, kerchiefs, imitation jewelry—so much the vogue with the rich—is easier to name than the numerous items there are.

CHAMPS SHOULD REPEAT IN 1914

Athletic's Team of Youngsters
Who Will Be Better Than Ever Next Season.

Only a miracle can prevent the Athletics from again winning the highest title in baseball in 1914, as the team today is a team of youngsters, a club ready in the process of construction.

Take the outfield, there's Eddie Murphy and Walsh, both barely out of their teens, and Duke Oldring, is not old as men range in the playing end to baseball. Then take a look at the infield. Stuffy McGinnis is a kid, while Eddie Collins is several years on the side of 30. The same goes for Jack Barry. Frank Baker is somewhat of a veteran. He had several years experience before entering the American league and has been hit the ranks for quite a while.

Wally Schang, the sensational young backstop is a youngster, and several of Mack's pitchers are minors. Joe Bush who was to the Giants this year what Hugh Bennett proved in 1912 is but 20 years old.

Three months ago Connie Mack said his team would win the American League pennant and his prophecy worked out. He also stated that he would have a better club in 1914. He has always been known to look further ahead than Tammany Hall for the right kind of men and he also has a habit of making prophecies that rarely fail. As a prophet the all tactician is well nigh infallible.

Young Twirlers Will Show

It's doubtful if Bender and Plank will be seen in another world's series even if the Athletics win next year. They have paid heavily to time and are due to break most any month. They will however prove handy during the regular season, but the other reliance will be placed on the kid twirlers. And they appear to be a capable lot. Bush, Shawkey and Brown will be three good pitchers next season. There is also a chance that Jack Chombs will return. Combs, however will be three good pitchers next season and they will probably need them in ending his life before next June.

And don't forget this—Connie Mack has a string of boys under cover and is likely to produce a few more young stars.

Hobe Baker, Light But Fast, Thinks His Princeton Team is a Winner

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 11.—Hobe Baker, captain of the Princeton Varsity football team, is one of the fastest and cleverest backs in the game today. He is very fast on his feet and can appear just appearing tackles and ends like an owl. Baker is a good drop kicker. He has about the same style of light, but fast from that Captain Pendleton made such a good showing with last season, overwhelming Dartmouth and losing Yale, although succumbing to heavy Harvard. Baker hopes to even improve on Pendleton's record of last year.

staff, which they compare with the junkies upon which cocaine are fed, despite the fact that corn is generally to be found in high class establishments. The mere fact that make has long been grown as a fringe crop with and less should not be unfavorable to the use of corn ends by the epicures of suburbia. It was not until 1801 that ideas occurred to an Essex grower to make sweet corn for table use in which might be termed commercial quantities, but in fairness to the memory of one who believed in this dainty, William Parbitt must not be overlooked. As far back as 1827 he experimented with maize and named his favorite variety Cornett's corn, on which he wrote an exhaustive treatise.

Goldust was an avowed enemy of the potato, which had the tendency to become so diseased and soot degrading. He went even further and predicted that very soon the succulent corn would entirely do away with the use of the tuber. It was over this with Goldust. They are always right and the rest of the world devoid of sense. Nearly ninety years have passed and Goldust's prophecy remains unfulfilled. He sent a variety, a stem with seven ribs to Kew, but there is now no trace of it left. Little reverence is paid to his memory for his untiring energy and efforts to popularize white corn. Those who today enjoy the vegetable, little know how much they are indebted to William Goldust, who must have died a disappointed man, so far as his vegetarian hopes were concerned.

A few items in Covent Garden receive a modern quantity of corn principally from Jersey and Essex, but the requests for it is not so large as the merits of the article fully justify. Apart from the small public supplied by retailers who deal in luxuries and little known delicacies, Britain seems to be the best informed neighborhood on the subject of corn. The explanation of this fact is one that only tradition can give, and is worth quoting in that populous neighborhood there grows many music hall artists, a great number of whom have been in America where they acquired a taste for corn. Whenever they know it is obtainable in England those lively entertainers are keen on the enjoyment of the cobs. They welcome the sight of the green leaves with a delight that one associates with the sweetest of old friends.

All variety artists are not wealthy, and at many times many of them are glad to use the cheap and nutritious corn, which, plain boiled, and with the addition of a little salt, pepper and butter is quite savory. Kullford Park here quite useless in the matter of vegetables. The best way of enjoying the vegetable is to adhere to the primitive method of fingers and mouth. This may come as a shock to the punctilious and the well-mannered.

but it is none the less true. There are such things as corn holders, into which the cone may be placed, but after all the most accommodating organ, the mouth, must be brought in to play in a most intelligent manner. Americans are of the opinion that the enjoyment of the vegetable is worth the sacrifice of gracefulness, a barbarous idea which will with difficulty penetrate English ideas. Why, even a speech or lecture in which the flesh of the fruit adheres firmly to the stone is not accepted nowadays. It is a wonder that grapes are not taboo because they do not lend themselves to the graceful manipulation of a silver utensil.

This season's corn is of a good quality. There was sufficient rain in the growing district just when it was wanted, and the sunshine has come at an opportune time. Good cobs are to be bought from 2d to 3d each, at which price they are worthy of consideration at a variant from the usually monotonous vegetable course.

HIGH HONORS FOR DOVER BOY

Daniel C. Kingman, a former well known and popular resident of Dover has been honored by his appointment by the United States government as chief of the engineering corps of ordnance and fortifications, which is the highest possible distinction in the department of which Mr. Kingman has been a member for some time. Mr. Kingman as many will remember attended the public schools of Dover, and received his appointment to West Point from this territory being the son of the well known character, the late Col. John W. Kingman, who for several years conducted an attorney's office in Dover. Mr. Kingman has at all times manifested a sincere interest in the government work, and his diligent and untiring efforts in behalf of his department are responsible for his promotion which is most gratifying to his many friends in Dover.

Charge of Intoxication by Policeman Is Found
Utterly False.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Secretary Daniels made the vindication of Ensign Chevalier, the navy aviator, charged by the Baltimore police with driving an automobile while intoxicated the occasion for a formal statement today. The secretary said: "After thorough investigation by both the civil authorities of Baltimore and Superintendent Gibbons of the naval academy, Ensign D. C. Chevalier, against whom a charge of intoxication has been preferred by Baltimore policeman, has been completely vindicated.

"I am gratified at the vindication of Ensign Chevalier, who is one of the most capable aviators in the navy. The result strengthens me in the opinion that it is the duty of the department to order a full investigation whenever there are publications reflecting upon an officer.

Portsmouth Citizens Should Read and Heed This Advice.

Kidney trouble is dangerous and often fatal. Don't experiment with something new and untried.

Use a tested kidney remedy. Begin with Don's Kidney Pills. Used in kidney troubles 50 years. Recommended here and everywhere. A Portsmouth citizen's statement forms convincing proof.

Leslie Whitehouse, 7 Thornton St., Portsmouth N. H., says: "About a year ago I began to have trouble from my back and kidneys. Often a sharp catch darted through my body and became so bad that I could hardly move. There was also a dull, throbbing ache across my loins and the kidney secretions were highly colored and contained sediment. Don's Kidney Pills, procured at Philbrook's Pharmacy corrected my trouble and I have had no return attack."

ROBBED HOTEL SAFE AND FLED

Arthur Skelton Alleged to Have Taken $150 From the Hotel Whittier.

The local police were notified on Friday evening to be on the lookout for Arthur Skelton, who is alleged to have left the Hotel Whittier early Friday evening, taking with him $150 belonging to the hotel.

Skelton was employed as a porter about the hotel, and on Friday evening when the clerk left the office he is alleged to have gone to the safe which was unlocked and took the money amounting to $150. He then left the hotel and disappeared.

The loss was not discovered until time later and by that time Skelton had made good on his get away.

Police officer Smith was called in and he found that Skelton had his suit case packed but he got away in such a hurry that he left the case. Skelton came to the hotel, Whittier from a Boston employment agency.

THE FARMER'S OWN DEPARTMENT

Secretary of Agriculture, U.S.D.A.

The work falls into two fields: (a) the protective side; (b) increased production and increased profit side.

On the protective side note the department's campaign to aid the farmer to overcome plant diseases, to prevent and stop ravages of insects and other pests and blights and to deal effectively with contagious diseases and epidemics among plants and animals.

On the constructive side the government's work begins with the actual soil. The bureau of soils has for years been making complete soil analyses and has furnished each county studied with complete maps showing the nature of the soil, the crops best suited and how to treat the soils.

The dairy division conducts work to cut from herds unprofitable cattle, to produce and ship dairy products with greatest profit and to increase values.

Another bureau pays special attention to poultry, showing how to produce, pack, chill and ship eggs and dressed poultry, so as to command highest market prices. Other bureaus search the world for new agricultural products which might be profitably raised on American soil.

The biological survey specializes on the protection of birds and wild animals which are beneficial to farming, and on the eradication of animal pests.

The cost of hauling farm produce over bad roads can easily run up to 25 cents a ton a mile and so make it impossible to compete on equal terms with producers located on good roads. The department maintains a special office of public roads which is conducting extensive experiments to secure good roads over which the farmer may haul his produce to market.

An office of markets will investigate thoroughly the possibilities of supplying farmers with market quotations and will endeavor to aid them in co-operative and other forms of selling.

This office also will take up the question of shipping farm produce. The department is ready and anxious to see that every farmer receives the benefits of the service.

BALANCED RATIONS

What They Mean to the Dairyman.
By LARA ROSE STEPHEN.
Of Ontario Agricultural College, Author of "The Dairyman's Guide".
Properly fed cows are better milk-ers; produce stronger, healthier calves; are better able to withstand sickness and disease and changes in climate; are always ready sellers.

Moderately high feeding costs, but it pays. There is no economy so false as shortening up the food supply or feeding a ration widely out of balance, and that brings up the question:

"What is a balanced ration?"

A balanced ration is one in which the three chief food principles—protein, carbohydrates and fat—are in the right proportions.

If a cow is to do her best she must get a liberal supply of properly combined food. One pound of protein to six pounds of carbohydrates and fats is the right proportion.

The protein in the food is the expensive element. It is that which forms muscle in the body and the casein or curd in the milk. The carbohydrates are the cheapest portion. They are the starch and sugar of plants and perform a like office in the body of the cow. Green fodder, corn silage, hay and roots of all kinds are high carbohydrates. Gluten, cottonseed and linseed meals, peas, wheat bran and oats contain a high per cent of protein.

Alfalfa hay is particularly rich in this valuable constituent. A ton has as much value for cows as a ton of bran.

It is the bulky foods that form the big part of a cow's ration. If you own a big cow remember her stomach is capable of holding forty gallons. So give her plenty of feed and water. She needs nothing in summer but good grass, fresh water, a lump of rock salt and the shade of a tree.

In winter you may give the same cow forty pounds of good corn silage, twenty to thirty pounds of pulped roots, eight pounds of oat straw and clover hay, four pounds each of bran and crushed oats and one pound of oil cake. Give this in two feeds and a little long hay at noon, and you'll not be far off a balanced ration.

Feed the grain according to the milk flow.

A heavy milker requires a much larger ration of meal than does a cow with a small milk flow. A cow that is fed a large quantity of starchy foods and a small amount of meals rich in protein may draw upon the reserve she has stored in her system, but she will soon go down in flesh, and her milking period will be shortened.

FRUIT GROWING

Making It Pay by Co-operation.
By J. B. NORMAN.

Practical Horticulturist. Formerly Connected with the Dept. of Agriculture.

Many fruits, such as peaches, strawberries and raspberries, are very perishable. They must be picked at the right time, packed properly and marketed promptly to bring good prices. The grower runs big risks when he stands alone. The season is short, lasting only a few weeks at the most. The grower must be able to take advantage of market conditions or failure stares him in the face. He may deal with an honest commission merchant and yet get little or nothing for his fruit. It may spoil on the road or the market may be overstocked, when the price surely falls. This spells failure, and it is an every-day occurrence. For this reason co-operation has spread rapidly among fruit growers in all parts of the country with splendid results.

Even Missouri does not have to be shown. In fact, Missouri can show us something worth while when it comes to a question of co-operation among growers of small fruits. One man with 370 acres on less than three acres reports a net profit of $673. Another with 100 acres reports a net profit of more than $1500. These incomes are not unusual among small fruit growers in the Ozark region, when they are united into co-operative societies.

It is practically impossible for growers of strawberries and peaches in Missouri to sell their crops at a profit if they try to market them without co-operation. Before the Ozark Fruit Growers' association was formed many strawberry growers were selling out because of poor prices, but now strawberry farming is probably the most prosperous line of agriculture in the state. The chief benefit has been brought about by shipping to towns and cities where the supplies of fruit were not large. The manager of the society is in daily communication with all available markets.

Other benefits are the establishment of fruit brands that have become known to the trade, are sought in the market and bring high prices. The growers have acquired better business methods. They have better facilities for handling their crops, and they take better care of their orchards because it pays them to do so.

There is room for progress, but by educating fruit growers through the local press in the advantages of co-operation there is no reason why the growing of perishable fruits may not be made a safe and profitable business practically everywhere.

MOLTING

A Serious Problem For the Hen Man.
By J. W. KELLER.

Practical Breeder and Poultry Expert. Supporting in the hottest part of summer, after months of hard work, you had to make an extra new outfit of clothes for the coming winter. You would and it is a pretty big job, and so does the hen. Forced to lay eggs all winter, set for three weeks in spring and then burdened with a family for many weeks more, she no sooner seems to deserve a rest than she is called upon to grow an entirely new coat of feathers for the coming winter.

Even wild birds become listless, lose their song and often their power of flight during molting, and it is even harder on the domestic fowl, which does much heavier work. Ordinarily the first full molt comes at about sixteen months old, but chicks molt continually until matured, and sometimes early spring pullets molt in the fall.

Good nourishing food with plenty of greens may be given during this trying period, and providing the birds are not overfat at the start, beef scraps and oilmeal are valuable if used in moderation. In addition, most successful poultrymen use a good poultry regulator or tonic, which is quite generally agreed to be an absolute necessity for fowls kept under present artificial conditions.

Even if the weather be warm considerable corn may be fed, provided the birds have cool runs. The importance of giving all the run or range possible during the molt cannot be overestimated. It affords valuable opportunity for exercise and obtaining access to the general health.

There are a number of methods to hasten a molt. One sure and humane way is to pluck from the bird's body such feathers as appear dead and still clinging, but if these feathers do not come away easily or appear frayed or bloody this should not be done.

While the above is written about hens, remember that to the males, after long hard breeding season, molting is just as serious. Male birds molt more slowly when kept with females, so they should be separated from them during this time, but they may be fed and treated like the hens. Remember, the male is the heart of your flock, so keep him strong and vigorous. While birds are weakened during molting they are easy prey for disease, so keep everything clean and disinfected liberally.

Rally Day Song—"Service for our King" (Written for Rally Day by a S. S. officer.)

Rally round our leaders in our school today.

Let us all the moments with our gladness lay,

Joyfully uniting, ready for the fray,

Service be the word we bring.

(Chorus)—

Rally! Rally! All along the way;

Rally! Rally! We'll call obey.

Rally! Rally! Let the chorus ring;

Rally! all, to service for our King!

Rally for our Master, for the Christ who came,

Bidding us as children call upon His name.

Who, in later years, to us is "Just the same,"

Service to our Lord, we sing. Chorus

Rally for our brothers, let us lend a hand,

Helping those who need it, for we all must stand

So that we may gather in that heavenly land.

Service, joyfully we sing. (Chorus.)

Closing Sentences—

Superintendent—"Let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us."

School—"And establish thou the work of our hands upon us."

HAD TO PAY FARE

Many people from this city who went to Boston Thursday on the excursion which was advertised as a two days excursion, are somewhat displeased over the fact that their tickets of Thursday were not good on Friday to return on. A great many remained over night thinking that the two days excursion called for a stop over, but the tickets "said different," but many did not bother to look at the tickets until they were refused by the conductors on Friday and they had to come across with the fare $1.50.

TENNESSEE GETS IN DRY COLUMN

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 17.—Legislation prohibiting interstate liquor shipments in Tennessee and prohibiting interstate shipments in quinine over a gallon for personal use became effective today with the signing of two bills by Gov. Hooper. They were passed yesterday at the extraordinary session of the Legislature, summoned to consider the bills.

Another law, which makes saloons, disorderly houses, or gambling places nuisances, to be abated on the motion of 10 property holders, will become effective March 1.

None of the bills had serious opposition in either house, nearly all members of each of the several factions supporting each bill.

The first bill prohibits the shipment of liquor into the state, and the second prohibits interstate shipments of liquor, fixing responsibility for the law's enforcement upon officers of the county into which such shipment may be made.

Passage of these measures ends what has been a bitter fight, extending over months. Opposition at a previous special session floundered successfully while law enforcement forces made charges that gunmen were present in the hall of the House in intimate's them.

Tennessee has a state-wide prohibition law, but it merely prohibits the sale of liquor within four miles of a schoolhouse, and it has not been effective. It is declared that the three measures just passed will apply the defects in that law and stop liquor traffic altogether.

A $50,000 FIRE IN ROCKLAND

Rockland, Me., Oct. 17.—The fact that the roofs of all buildings had been thoroughly soaked by the rain of the past few days saved the Crook's Point district of this city from a serious conflagration early today, when property valued at $50,000 was destroyed. The fire, believed by the police to have been set, started in the kiln shed of A. C. Gay & Co., and a high wind carried it rapidly to nearby buildings. The shed and two lime kilns owned by the Gay concern were burned together with seven kilns and a large shed owned by the Rockland & Rockport Line Company, and about two thousand feet of trestle-work on the Limerock Railway. A coal shed owned by Thorndike & Hix was badly damaged. All the property was partly insured. The signal cord by which fire alarms are given from the Limekiln district had been cut, causing considerable delay in giving the alarm. The police think the fire was started by the same persons who last Tuesday night, poured gasoline about some of the buildings in the district and tried to set them afire.

OBSEQUES

Daniel F. Herron

Funeral services of Daniel F. Herron were held at the home in North Hampton Friday afternoon at 2.30, Rev. L. H. Thayer officiating. Mrs. Mae Priest sang "Nearer My God to Thee," "It Sings Low in Every Heart," and "Abide With Me." Interment took place in East cemetery North Hampton under direction of H. W. Nickerson. The bearers were George A. Boynton, David Lamprey, George D. Cotton and Fred W. Barry.

The Razor as a Deadly Weapon.

Every race and clan is associated with some particular instrument of combat. We are familiar with the Russian and his bomb, the Italian and his stiletto, the Indian with his bow and arrow, the negro with his razor. Confining ourselves chiefly to the razor, all are ugly weapons we must admit, but are they deadly weapons? The supreme court of Mississippi in reviewing the conviction of a 13-year-old boy, charged with unlawfully carrying concealed a certain deadly weapon, to wit, a razor, which he testified his aunt had given him to have sharpened after she had cut her corns with it, holds that a razor is not a deadly weapon within the meaning of the statute. Quoting the court: "In some sections of the land it may be the habit or custom of a certain class of persons to carry a razor concealed for the purpose of using it in combat. The time may come when it will be so generally used as an instrument in combat as to cause the Legislature to include it in the names of deadly weapons which shall not be carried concealed; but we cannot decide that it is so included now."

Preparing for War.

It is hardly necessary to state that this nation does not expect war nor want war, but that is no reason why it should be unprepared. A year or two ago the world witnessed the impotence of Turkey in augmenting and supporting its Tripolitan forces because the Italian navy blocked the way, and more recently the manner in which Greece prevented the Turkish ships from coming out of the Dardanelles. President Wilson will be sustained by the American people if he insists that the country have a naval fighting force commensurate with its population, commercial interests, coast line, island possessions and standing as a world power.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

Hint to Hunters.

It behooves hunters to read the new law prohibiting the shooting of migratory birds which President Wilson signed October last. The national organizer of the Order of Backwoodsman expresses the belief that the shooters of migratory birds will be pursued as relentlessly as if they were counterfeiters, or postoffice robbers. An insect-infested country, in which bird life is threatened with extinction by pot hunters, has reason to hope that the violator of the law against shooting birds of passage will be made to feel the force of the law if he violates it.—Fall River News.

The South Suffers Least.

A study of the tariff law and income tax shows that the great industrial centers have been hit the most. They give up the greater part of the tariff protection which the new law does away with, and they will pay the bulk of the income tax revenue. The South is largely benefited. It has few industries compared with the North and the revenue tax will fall lightly on that section. It is evident that the large southern representation in Congress were alive to southern interests. Mr. Underwood, who framed the tariff bill and steered it through, is a southern man.—Newark Star.

Mixing Rum and Gasoline.

Revocation and suspensions of automobilists' licenses by the highway commission are becoming numerous. There were nine of each decreed last week. Several of those who lost their permits had drunk to blame for their misfortune. That punishment was well enough so far as it went, but offenders of that type deserve severer penalties. Persons who, while under the influence of intoxicants, operate motor vehicles should be sent to jail and kept there for good long terms. They are a menace to the community which should be rigorously suppressed.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

The Mexican Situation.

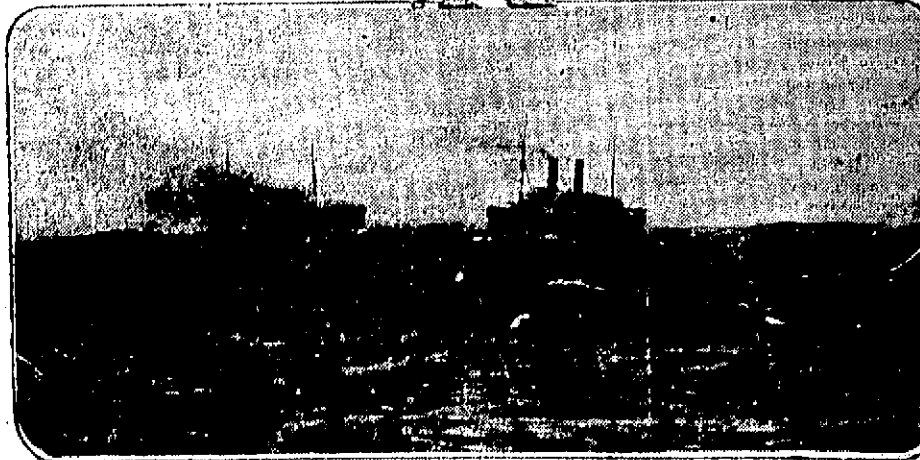

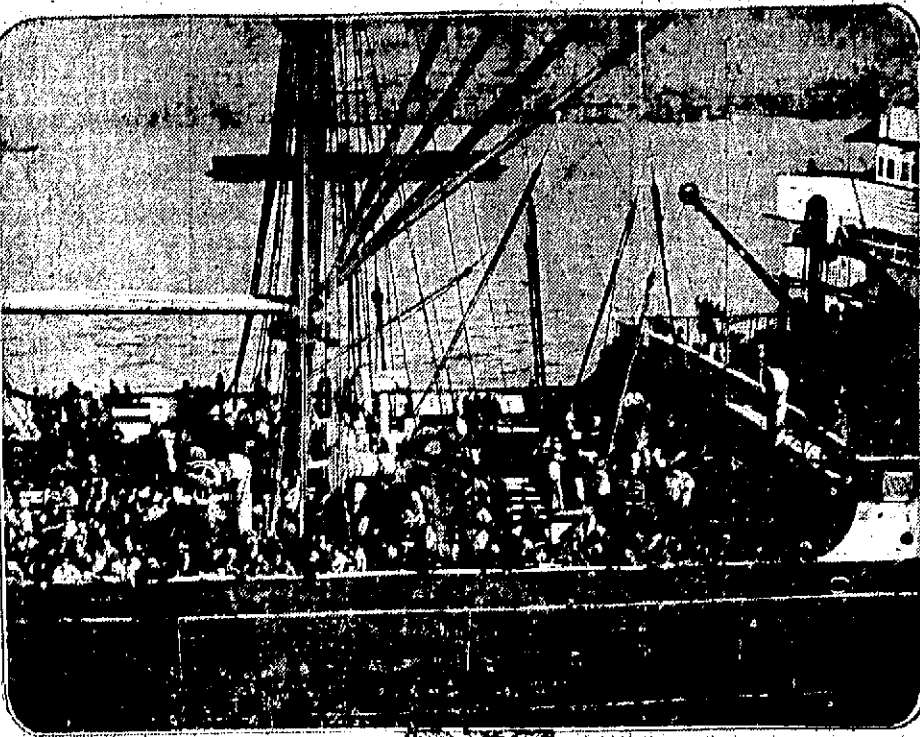

President Wilson's representative in Mexico, Mr. John Lind, appears to be about as well posted as to what is going on in Mexico as the Joe Knowles did while he was in the Maine woods. Regardless of the political side—the treatment of the Mexican trouble by this country has become an international joke. It would appear that the people should be entitled to a settled policy by the United States and that a firm hand should protect American life in Mexico.

New York's Disgrace.

The court of impeachment at Albany, New York, has removed Governor Sulzer and thus does another false god of the people go down. The strangest thing to those who knew Sulzer in Washington is that he has escaped all this time from being exposed. He has been nothing but cheap in his political life and while Tammany is perhaps worse, the fact remains that Sulzer is not of the type of man to be governor of any state.

Volturno Burning at Sea and Hero of the Rescue

Ships, Grosser Kurfuerst, Arriving at New York.

Photos by American Press Association.

The Grosser Kurfuerst of the North German Lloyd line was the hero rescue ship of the international fleet that saved a total of nearly 550 passengers and crew from the ill-fated Volturno of the Uranian line, which burned at sea while bound from Rotterdam to Halifax. The upper picture shows the midship section of the Grosser Kurfuerst crowded with the 103 rescued passengers, all men, as the ship reached New York. The lower picture shows the Volturno burning, with some of the passengers still aboard. This picture was taken from the Grosser Kurfuerst and gives a good idea of what the doomed ship looked like while the rescue vessels were saving those who had not previously been burned or drowned. The Kronland is standing by.

the colonial. This enables the government to put into a community more money than it takes out.

"The government asks in return something that every banker should be willing to concede, namely, that the should issue money itself. Why let the banks issue the money to them of money when the government must issue in those of money? The President has taken the position that the government should issue the money, and I think he is right.

"I also believe the banks can very well concede this point, when they consider the benefits they receive through not having to purchase bonds as security, and they will have to concede this point whether they want to or not. There is one point on which the banks are divided. It is whether the board that controls the issue shall consist of bankers or government officials."

Discusses Income Tax

On the income tax law he said: "I have been called an anarchist for advocating the income tax more than for any one thing that I have ever advocated. Because I favored a two per cent tax with an exemption of $4,000 and no graduation, they called me a demagogue and a disturber of the peace and accused me of trying to stir up the poor people against the rich. That is what they did 19 years ago, but this country is changed. When this bill passed the house I provided for an income tax running from one per cent to four, and when it got to the senate the senate said it was not enough, for now we have a Democratic senate, a senate that comes from the people. We have an income tax running from one per cent to seven per cent of an income of $500,000 and more.

"When that bill came to be passed there were men in this country who had advocated an income tax, who were willing to keep 50 per cent on wooden goods and the old Payne-Adams bill, rather than to let the Democrats give a lower tax and income tax."

Praises President

"I realize that while western Republicans voted for the extraordinary rates of a higher tariff, an eastern Democrat, Woodrow Wilson, cast his lot with the plain people and gave them a low rate on the necessities of life."

"Why did he do it? Because his heart is on the people's side. They could not come down and scare him. The man in his own state who had great factories and wanted a high tariff could not persuade him to take his stand with them and he let them collect tribute from the rest of the people.

"You have been shirking your duties and making the poor people bear burdens you ought to bear. Now we will help them to reduce taxation and you must take some of the load upon yourselves."

Mr. Bryan stated that he believed that the present tariff law would set the agitation on that subject for a generation at least. He said Nelson Aldrich's opposition to the currency bill was necessary to secure the passage of the bill.

Mr. Aldrich has done more than any other man in public life to make the Republican party a third party in this country," said the speaker. "We had a meeting in Boston the other day and the papers said that when the question was asked as to whether they should be controlled by a board of bankers, they all shouted, 'We think the banks ought to be controlled by bankers.'"

WAS JEALOUS OF OTHER WOMEN

noticed any signs of the drug habit. She first noticed the admiral's illness on March 6, before he had touched the roast pork which Mrs. Eaton claimed was the cause of that attack.

Witness Appears Ill.

Mrs. Harrison appeared very frail from the illness from which he had been suffering since the admiral's death last March. Often, as she answered the questions of District Attorney Barker, tears rolled down the aged woman's cheeks, but she never gave way entirely to her emotions.

Mrs. Harrison took the stand after her 16-year-old grand-daughter, Dorothy, had finished six hours of testimony. Mrs. Harrison testified about Dorothy had said about the admiral in the household.

Mrs. June Keyes, the oldest daughter of Mrs. Eaton by a former marriage, figured prominently in the testimony today. Dorothy said that it was June who had started the talk about the admiral being insane and dabbling in poison. Mrs. Harrison testified about the antipathy which seemed to exist between the admiral and June.

Quarreled Shortly Before Death.

Mrs. Harrison said that the admiral and Mrs. Eaton quarreled on the Monday preceding his death, although she did not know what it was about.

Mrs. Harrison was asked directly by the district attorney whether or not she had ever seen signs indicating insanity in the admiral. She replied that she had not. Mrs. Harrison said that she was very fond of the admiral and that he treated all members of the family kindly, particularly her.

Mrs. Harrison admitted that Mrs. Eaton was very jealous of the admiral at times. She said that she spoke to Mrs. Eaton about it and received the answer that the admiral lowered his dignity by his attitude towards strange women.

"Made Foolish Remarks."

Mrs. Harrison said her daughter often made "foolish remarks."

Regarding Mrs. Eaton's statements that the admiral was insane, Mrs. Harrison testified that her daughter wanted him examined and that she had a nurse come to observe him. Mrs. Eaton also wrote to her mother in Virginia that she thought the admiral was sane and intelligent that she feared him.

Mrs. Harrison said she married to

CURRENT OPINION

GOOD CITIZENSHIP AND THE CHURCH.

After having visited America to study the genius of our institutions, De Tocqueville reported to the French senate: "I went at their bidding, and passed along their thoroughfares of trade; I ascended their mountains, and went down their valleys; I visited their manufactories, their commercial markets and emporiums of trade; I entered their judicial courts and legislative halls, but I sought everywhere in vain until I entered the church. It was there, as I listened to the soul-equalizing and soul-elevating principles of the Gospel of Christ, as they, fell from Sabbath to Sabbath, upon the masses of the people, that I learned why America was great and free."

How fortunate that so many so-called "good American citizens" act toward the church as if it were a kind of necessary luxury in the community, rather than as an essential institution for the sake of permanent material, as well as moral success. They treat it as if common decency and custom require its presence and activity for the sake of a type of reverence in their children and for the sake of ministering to a not yet outgrown traditional sanctity in their wives and mothers. I say this is a type of benign attitude on the part of many so-called "good American citizens," who though they may not say anything in loud-mouthed criticism against the church, yet in actions, which always speak louder than words, say in a very practical manner, "We've outgrown the need of that kind of thing."

Observe the phraseology I have used; they act thus, and they give this impression. Whether many sincerely feel as they act and reflect, is another question. But to such people as act in this manner toward the church, I wish to say that the church stands for more than mere tradition, more than mere habit and custom, more than out-grown superstition, more than for the sake of ministering to childhood innocence and maternal sanctity. The church is the concrete embodiment in symbol of God and right and righteousness in the world. The church stands for the world's progress.

Toward that one far off divine event,

To which the whole creation moves.

The church's life in influence and efficiency is the nation's guarantee, and only guarantee, as De Tocqueville expressed it, of America's "greatness" and "freedom."

O no, the church is more than a temporary institution; it is more than a "club" institution, be that class weak or strong, rich or poor, learned or ignorant, sentimental or philosophical. The church is a universal institution in its application and appeal. The nation needs its light and leading to guarantee its perpetuity; the home needs its teaching and comfort for the perfecting of kindness and the inculcation of deathless love; you and I need its inspiration and its call to meditation upon the things that are unseen but eternal, that we may not only be the better able to comprehend the scope of our own beings, but be the better able to live a brotherly, helpful life among our fellows.—James Davidson Dingwell.

SAD STUFF

her daughter's side and, not finding anything out of the way, told Mrs. Eaton her fears were without foundation. Many times, said Mrs. Harrison, she heard June and her mother express fears of poisoning.

"I tried to talk these notions about poison and other things out of her," said Mrs. Harrison. She added that the admiral was very kind throughout these accusations of June and Mrs. Eaton, but that nevertheless he seemed to feel badly about it.

June Hated Step-Father.

June, she went on, showed a decided antipathy towards her step-father, and refused to eat with him. The friction between them started Mrs. Harrison thought, when the admiral wanted June to study and she objected.

On cross examination by Attorney Morse Mrs. Harrison said the admiral was very fond of his wife. Sometimes, she said, he had vomiting spells as a result of over indulgence in alcohol. Much of Mr. Morse's cross examination was devoted to bringing out facts concerning the admiral's intoxication.

Mrs. Eaton often expressed a wish for a child, Mrs. Harrison testified and that finally one was adopted which both she and the admiral seemed to love very much.

LIKED HIS WORK.

Much Praise for a Former Portsmouth Priest.

The last issue of the Colebrook Sentinel has the following on the promotion of Rev. William J. Cavanaugh, as a result of the recent changes made among the Catholic clergy in the diocese of New Hampshire:

"Rev. Fr. W. J. Cavanaugh has been appointed to the rectorate of the Roman Catholic parish at Groveton, after a pastorate of four years in the mission work of this community. During this time his record as priest and citizen has been splendid, and he has endeavored himself to the clergy and people of other denominations by his broad-minded conception of pastoral duties. His removal is in the nature of a promotion, and the new field of activity is larger and more commensurate with his proven qualifications for more important work."

Fr. Cavanaugh was educated in the parochial schools of Manchester, his native city. He became a student at St. Joseph's College and graduated therefrom in 1897. In 1902 he graduated from the Theological Seminary at Montreal and was ordained the same year. He has held curacies in Dixville and Portsmouth and was appointed pastor of North Stratford in October, 1907. During his administration the church buildings under his care have been vastly improved, and the attendance at all services notably increased.

"Nothing but leaves—the spirit greaves." They litter the lawn, they clog the eaves.

The dying grass is a sadden mass, And the whole back yard is a damp morass.

They tell me to take a borrow and rake And sweep 'em away for the goodness sake; And I answer that we should let them be.

They are good for the sod as a fool could see; That it's just the think to wait 'till spring.

When the buds come out and the birds sing, For mulching is good, be it understood.

Enriching the soil, as 'twas meant it should; And the leaves will rot, just as like as not.

And our whole yard change to a garden spot Where the flowers will not from the fertile sod.

To the joy of the eye and the glory of God, And Nature will smile in a tropical style.

And we'll live in a paradise after a while! But it's O, the dew, and its what's the use?

Wife thinks this is all a mere excuse, And I sadly weep as a rake and sweep.

And my garden of vision is buried deep, And all of the grandeur my brain conceives.

Is nothing but leaves—nothing but leaves. —Ted Robinson in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Last evening at the First Methodist church an important business meeting was held of the pewholders and interested parishioners. Augustus P. Stevenson presided with Cutler Haley as clerk, and much important business was transacted, including the election of officers and re-election of the old board of trustees with two new members, making nine in all. It was decided to install electric lights and town water and a committee appointed to confer with the people regarding the installation of the same. These improvements have been made possible through the generosity of Mr. Stevenson, who is one of the influential workers of the society. At the conclusion of the business session the following program was given: Piano duet, Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Hayes; vocal duet, Mrs. Flanders and Mrs. Abbott; piano solo, Miss Pillsbury; vocal solo, Miss Mabel Moore. Ice cream and assorted cake were served, the former having been donated by Mr. Stevenson. It was a joyous occasion for all those present, and work on the improvements will be started as soon as possible.

The B. G. Pandy Work Club was pleasantly entertained on Friday evening by Miss Sissie Seawards.

Owing to the weather, stagnation still reigns supreme in the lower harbor, though on most of the craft at anchor the crews find work enough repairing damages in the gale of last Monday.

HANSON A WINNER.

Had Hard Work in the Match
Against Strum.

Fritz Hanson, the welterweight wrestling champion and holder of the Lord Londale belt, successfully defended his title in a best two out of three falls, catch as catch can style, against George Strum of Hartford, Conn., at the Grand Opera House in Boston. Hanson won the first and third falls, while Strum secured the second fall.

The champion was forced to bring into play everything he knew about wrestling, and there were times when the verdict gave every evidence of going against him. Strum proved a clever mat artist and was the aggressor throughout.

Hanson secured the first fall after 23 minutes and 30 seconds of hard uphill struggling. The second fall which went to Strum in one minute and thirty seconds, came about while the wrestlers were in a fierce mixup. Strum securing a double arm lock on the champion, which he held until Referee Tuohy signalled him the fall. Hanson afterward declared that he thought Tuohy was sitting on his head so quick did Strum pin him to the mat. Strum was again the aggressor in the third period, Hanson being content to play on the defensive. After 23 minutes and 30 seconds of hard grappling, Hanson secured a front body roll.

REPORTS ARE NOT VERIFIED BY FACTS

Concord, Oct. 17.—The report that Senator Gallinger was seriously ill and in a dangerous condition is not verified by the facts.

The senator is able to be up and about and is on the street. For the past two months he has been suffering from pneumonia, and while he is far from well his condition is not in any way alarming. He hopes by taking a good rest to recover from his ailment so that he will be able to resume his official duties at Washington in the not far distant future. The senator has been especially hard worked during the long extra session of congress, and the summer in Washington has been one of the worst in years, and hardly any of the national legislators have escaped an illness of some kind or other.

"CASCARETS" CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

Cure Sick Headache, Constipation,
Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad
Breath—Candy Cathartic

Get a 10-cent box now.
Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure, and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a pasageway every few days with emetic, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing too.

RAILROAD NOTES

Engineer Thomas McCarthy of the yard switching force is enjoying a few days leave in Boston.

Conductor Arthur Hartford of the nights witcher is passing a few days in Lowell.

A work train in charge of Conductor Taylor is engaged in picking up old iron on the Portland division and York Harbor and Beach Branch.

Tourist sleeping cars may be introduced in the East as a result of the Wabash, Baltimore and Ohio operating them. The Pullman company has fought the introduction of tourist sleepers in every way and they have been not only where the public and railroad demanded them.

Tourist sleepers east of Chicago will not take business from standard sleepers, say transportation agents, but will afford coach passengers, people of moderate means, the privilege of getting a night's sleep.

Chairman Lee of the conference committees of managers of eastern railroads notes that the $18,000,000 annual increase in wages demanded by the 58,000 conductors and trainmen in the East is enough to pay annual interest charges on enough money to replace more than one half of the 50,000 wooden passenger cars in the United States with those of all-steel equipment. The sum is equal to the interest on a $360,000,000 at 6 per cent. Mr. Lee called attention that the average income of a farm in the United States is $400 per year. Average yearly income of a brakeman in eastern territory is $957 per year and a conductor $1356 per year. If demands were acceded to, the yearly income of every trainman would be about $200 more.

Beginning next week the telephone office of the car department of the Boston & Maine and that of the general manager in the North Union Depot will be consolidated and all business over the wire, relative to car movements will be handled by the force in the general managers office.

CALEB POWERS TO QUIT CONGRESS

But He Denies Ostracism By Fellow
Members Owing to Geesel Case

Washington, October 17.—Representative Caleb Powers, who came almost directly to Congress from the Kentucky prison where for years he had conducted a sensational fight for his life, growing out of the killing of Governor Geesel will retire at the end of his term.

"I am not now financially able to longer stay in the game of politics and play it as the times demand," said the congressman in his statement today. "The game is strenuous and life destroying. Any statement that I am retiring because of ostracism by members of congress is false. With the exception of the Democratic members from Kentucky whose association and fellowship I have never sought, nor desire, I have been treated respectfully and courteously by all members."

ELLIS ADMITS SLAYING WIFE

Self-Wounded Man Retracts
Story of Suicide
Compact.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—William C. Ellis, the Cincinnati leather merchant who was found wounded in a hotel room here yesterday, near the body of his wife, confessed to a coroner's jury today that he had killed the woman. He was held to the grand jury charged with murder.

After a conference with members of his wife's family, Ellis abandoned his assertion, made at first to the police, that the tragedy was the result of a suicide compact.

He assumed the entire blame for the killing and devoted his statement to obliterating the impression, given first, that jealousy was the motive of the crime.

Ellis, suffering from a bullet wound in his chest and from cuts on his wrist and throat, self-inflicted after killing his wife, listened almost all day to the testimony in the coroner's court.

His confession was made in a few words:

"I will state that I shot my wife," he said. "I suppose my mind must have been affected. I was worried over business troubles and the state of my health. I want to say that my wife was the greatest little woman in the world and the most virtuous. There was no trouble between us. She couldn't do anything wrong."

"She was in bed when I shot her. She did not know what I was going to do. I did not have any intention of doing this when I came to Chicago. I shot her first and gashed her afterwards with a knife."

Ellis, approaching collapse, begged to be allowed to take farewell of his wife's body. He was allowed to see it.

DEER RUNS WILD AT PROVIDENCE

Providence, Oct. 17.—A wild young deer wandered out of the woods into the business section of the North end this afternoon and became so confused that it crashed into a plate glass window of a bakery on North Main street. After the animal had extricated itself, it made a mad dash through the streets almost into the heart of the city, and plunged into the Providence river. It was pulled out, but was so badly injured that a policeman ended its existence with a bullet.

How Newspapers Can Aid Advertisers.

A former advertising manager of one of the largest drug concerns in the United States, in a forceful speech before a New York Club, said newspapers were in a position to render advertisers valuable cooperation.

It was his experience that his salesmen were not able, generally speaking, to report conditions in local fields as they should be reported.

The editor of the local paper, he maintained, was best qualified to supply national advertisers with reliable information concerning his particular locality.

This is a subject worth thoughtful consideration by publishers generally, and it should also bring to the mind of the national advertiser the universal usefulness of the daily newspaper—the one medium of communication with everyone, everywhere.

ZEPPELIN AIRSHIP EXPLODED KILLING 28

Germany Loses Another Dirigible With Horrible Loss of Life.

Berlin, Oct. 17.—The new naval Zeppelin airship "L 2" exploded high in the air near Johannisthal today, and was completely wrecked. All but one of the crew and passengers, of whom there were 28 in all, were killed.

The party included the Admiral's Trial Board, which was consulting her final trial prior to the acceptance of the new craft as a unit of the aerial fleet attached to the German Navy.

The Admiralty Board consisted of a number of officers, including Lieut. Commander Behnisch and Senior Lieut. Freyer of the German Naval Flying Corps. The pilot was Capt. Oltend, a veteran aviator in the employ of Count Zeppelin.

Guest Only Man Found Alive

Lieut. Baron von Hilt of the Queen Augusta Grenadier Guards was making the trip as a guest and was the only survivor of the wreck. He is in a dangerous condition.

Many of the bodies of the members of the crew were badly burned that they were not recognizable.

Coming so shortly after the destruction of the last completed dirigible, "L 1," in a hurricane in the North Sea on Sept. 4, when 15 men were drowned, today's disaster gave rise to a feeling of consternation in Berlin, whose public had within a week been saddened by the loss of many German passengers on board the burned and wrecked Luftschiff and by the accounts of the terrible mining catastrophe in Wales.

The disaster occurred at 10.15 while the airship was over the outskirts of Johannisthal, sailing at a height of about 500 feet.

The craft fell on the main highway leading into Johannisthal, the blackened and twisted framework blocking the road.

Great Pillar of Flame

The exact cause of the accident is not known. The dirigible had just left its shed, known as an aerodrome, and traversed barely a quarter of a mile in the direction of Berlin, when a great pillar of flame shot from the middle of the balloon. The next instant the craft was a mass of flame, plunging to earth, burying those aboard beneath the wreckage.

The "L 2" was the latest and largest of the new craft designed for the German Navy. It was about 600 feet long.

Hundreds Saw the Explosion

Hundreds of people witnessed the explosion and were appalled when they saw the great structure burst into flame and then fall from a height of 500 feet, its blazing canopy and twisted the Southern National Transcontinental Highway.

From Knoxville, the short line was taken across the mountains to Asheville, N. C., which proved to be a wonderfully scenic route, materially better than the preliminary reports had seemed to indicate. Leaving Asheville, the route led through Statesville, Salisbury, and Greensboro to Durham, N. C., where the line of the Quebec-Miami International Highway was met and followed north through Charlotte, Boydton, Dinwiddie and Petersburg to Richmond, Va. After traversing the "short line" between Richmond and Washington, which though not yet completed will be finished next year, the standard route was followed from the National Capital through Baltimore, Wilmington and Philadelphia to New York.

This is the longest single trip of its kind ever made, and full data was collected, from which complete mileage, road conditions and other necessary information for the tourist will be prepared, especially for the heavy cross-country travel in 1914-15. Every mile was covered by the same "Pathfinder 30" that crossed the continent three times in 1912, and also laid out the route of the Pacific Highway from Seattle and Portland to San Francisco. The same car was one of the entries in the Indiana Pacific tour, making in all five transcontinental tours for it up to the present time.

GALE OVER BUT SEA RUNNING HIGH

Woods Hole, Oct. 17.—The gale that swept the shores of Cape Cod for more than 72 hours abated last night, but a fearful sea is still running along the coast, and not one of the more than 100 yachts, including tug, barges and schooners, that rode out the storm in safety will venture to leave their anchorages today. The wind still holds to the northeast, and is blowing about 30 miles an hour off the coast.

Nantucket shoals is a seething mass of foam, while the seas are racing through Vineyard Sound threatening the big fleet that is anchored there.

The large Knickerbocker, which was brought to the anchorage grounds off Nantucket on Tuesday in a leaking condition, is still about with 10 feet of water in her hold, and a desperate effort is being made to prevent the craft from going down until such time as it is possible to tow her to some nearby port.

The revenue cutter Greaves is still at work somewhere on Nantucket Shoals and other wrecking tugs left here this morning to the aid of crippled vessels off the Cape.

Fifty yachts, including a number of big schooners, are at anchor less than half a mile off Nantucket Lighthouse where they were compelled to drop their anchors when the gale drove them to seek refuge.

A big steamer is at anchor off to the sound, dangerously near the ledge near the entrance to the harbor, and a big five-masted schooner with her sails torn to ribbons was shunted off the Portsmouth shore early this morning.

The schooner Peter Schultz, which came near being lost off Nantucket, was brought into port here this morning by wrecking tugs. The crew remained aboard the vessel as she was being pounded by the charging seas on the shoals, and tell a thrilling tale of their experiences. The schooner is badly damaged and the ship's papers were lost and her crew was badly used up.

The cargo of lumber alone saved the three-masted schooner Henry D. May, which is one of the crippled vessels in port here.

The crew of the May are on their way here from Monmouth Point Life Saving Station, where they had been marooned since they were taken ashore by the life savers on Tuesday.

The wrecking tug, Aweka, has just started for Nantucket Shoals where it is reported that an unknown schooner is floating about apparently abandoned.

Unconfirmed reports of mishap to other unknown vessels continue to be received here and every wrecking tug along the coast is busily engaged trying to locate the distressed craft.

The Greaves, it is reported, will reach port here tonight. She is short of provisions, and her supply of coal is nearly exhausted. Her arrival here is awaited with interest, as Capt. Winman and his crew, it is believed, will have a thrilling story to tell of their experiences since they left here Tuesday.

The steamer from Nantucket came up over the shoals this morning and started on her return trip on time. No disasters have been reported on Nantucket and so far as can be learned the coast of Martha's Vineyard is free of wrecks.

THE LANGUAGE OF THE HAIR

Do you think," she inquired as she sat on his knee.

While he fondled her tresses of gold.

"That the hair has a language, an over-time key.

"To secrets the lips never told."

"Yes, love," he replied, "on my arm where you see,

"Tonight, your dear hair nestles down.

"If a single bright hair should remain it would be,

"Tomorrow, the talk of the town."

SULZER IS NO LONGER GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 17.—William Sulzer no longer is Governor of the state of New York.

A few minutes before noon today the High Court of Impeachment, by a vote of 42 to 12, removed him from office. Senator Wendt and Judge Cullen excused themselves from voting.

The vote on the proposition of disqualifying Sulzer from ever again holding a place of honor or trust in the state was voted down unanimously, with the exception that Judge Cullen again excused himself from recording his vote.

The Governor received the news of his removal at the Executive Mansion where he had waited all morning to hear the result. He said he might make a statement later.

Prior to the vote on his disqualification and removal, the four last articles of the impeachment charges—3, 6, 7 and 8—were unanimously voted out. Court was in session little more than an hour. It was officially adjourned a minute after 12 o'clock.

Marlin H. Glyn of Albany, the acting Governor, became Governor, Robert F. Wagner of New York, majority leader of the Senate, became Lieutenant Governor.

No official notice of removal was given Sulzer. A record of the decision of the court was filed with the Secretary of State, thus complying with all the legal requirements to remove the Governor.

Prior to adjournment, Judge Cullen announced that the ban of secrecy on all that had transpired in secret sessions was removed.

Crowd in Senate Chamber

Both galleries of the Senate Chamber were filled with spectators when the Senators and judges filed solemnly in at 10.30 o'clock to sit for the last time as members of the High Court of Impeachment.

Judge D. Cady Herlick chief counsel for the Governor, was an early arrival. He said that he had arranged everything so that his connection with the case would terminate the minute the final vote was taken. He also said he had returned to the Governor a statement he prepared several weeks ago but which Herlick suppressed.

Chester C. Platt, the Governor's secretary, and the newspapermen in the lobby of the Senate chamber and around them that a statement would be ready, probably, for use in newspapers of tomorrow morning.

"The Governor has prepared it in part," he said, but he will not put the finishing touches on it until after the verdict is in. It will not be the statement which Judge Herlick said had.

The opening of the session was delayed while the members of the Senate and Assembly were gathering to adopt a concurrent resolution to recess until Oct. 20. It was the plan of the leaders to reconvene then, adopt any supplemental financial measures deemed necessary, and take another recess until after election.

This plan, it was said, was adopted so that if the Democrats lose their majority in the Assembly this fall some of the Democratic policies planned for next year may be carried out before the present legislative year ends.

The concurrent resolution calling for the reconvening of the Legislature next Wednesday night adopted, the High Court of Impeachment was called to order at 10.55 o'clock. The roll

HUERTA TO MAKE AN ADDRESS TO DIPLOMATS

Washington, Oct. 17.—Gen. Huerta's plans to assemble the foreign diplomats in Mexico City today or tomorrow, according to latest State Department advices, and make a statement on the present situation. No inkling of the purpose of Huerta's statement was contained in the dispatches. It will be received with the keenest interest, though Administration officials doubt that it will alter the situation.

Those closest to the Administration policy believe dealings with Huerta are practically ended, and that peaceful measures to compose the situation will next be exerted in other directions. Speculation on the possibility and extent of dealings with the Constitutionalist heads has been revived by the present situation, but brings no definite statement from official quarters.

President Wilson has from time to time said he would welcome information of the purposes of the Constitutionalist should they become successful by arms. There has been no direct communication, but the President is expected to be in receipt of information along these lines directly.

One difficulty is that the Constitutionalist chiefs are in various parts of the republic, and communication is so slow that united action on any plan which might be formulated would take some time to consummate.

In the meantime the Administration regards Huerta's promises for a pollition by an election as violated, and is

THRIFT ON THE FARM

"The habit of saving is itself an education. It fosters every virtue. It teaches self-denial. It cultivates a sense of order. It trains to forethought and so broadens the mind. It reveals the meaning of the word 'business' which is something very different from its routine."—T. T. Munger.

We hear more or less about abandoned farms in some parts of the country. There are not a great many which are actually abandoned as such, worth cultivation at all. But there are many which owners or renters have given up to some one else, because they have not been able to make them pay.

The writer took a ride with a country doctor in Northern New York on a day last summer. Quite a number of vacant and humble down farm houses were passed along the way. In reply to a question about them, the physician said that in most cases these farms had been taken over by the owner of an adjoining farm who had been more thrifty than his neighbor and who was now cultivating the enlarged farm more economically and efficiently than it would be possible to operate the two smaller farms separately.

There is no better illustration of the possibilities of thrift on the farm than is found in the recent cases of renters who become owners by making the change from paying straight rent to paying off the debt. This is the story of many a younger son or hired man who strikes out for himself.

It takes brains as well as muscle to run a farm nowadays and it is the man who uses good common sense and takes advantage of modern ideas (through the Grange, the agricultural press, the agricultural schools and in other ways) who gets ahead on the farm.

The farmer who plans his work systematically, who takes good care of his stock and his tools, who makes the best use of his time, is very liable to succeed if others are succeeding in his locality. Whatever the specialty of the region is, whether dairying, fruit raising or general farming, the combination of brains, brawn, determination and good habits, including gasoline thrift, is likely to win out in the end. The rural free delivery of mail and the rural telephones are helping farmers to save time and make more money.

"The farmer should never forget that a good bank is one of his best friends, and he should make it a point to become well known at his bank."

JUDGE PIKE WILL PRESIDE OVER SUPERIOR COURT

Chief Justice Robert G. Pike of Delaware will preside at the October term of court which convenes here on Tuesday of next week. The docket has already been called, Judge Pike having been here a week ago to call it.

The grand jury will be sent out with County Solicitor Gupilli and it is expected that two days will be taken up with the jury.

After the grand jury goes out, a memorial service for Attorney S. W. Emery and J. W. Kelley, both of whom have died since the last session of court, will be held.

The committee have been appointed to draw up resolutions and remarks will be made by the members of the bar.

It is expected that the session will be a long one as there are a great many civil cases to be disposed of and quite a large criminal docket.

LET THE HERALD SOLVE YOUR "AD" PROBLEM

How many times do your salesmen fail to do business because the way wasn't prepared for them with properly placed advertising?

It's the newspaper that must win a hearing today for your product. Advertising is necessary in making sales because purchasers have to be first interested in your goods—have to be first convinced that you really have something worth while to offer them—before they buy.

No selling plan can be effective, and no sales force can bring home the bacon without direct advertising. It's the very life-blood of business.

If you wish us to criticize your advertising we shall be pleased to give you our opinion without charge. We write the right ads to make advertising good advertising.

MRS. FISKE in "TESS OF THE D'URBERVILLES"—Five Reels.

The appearance of Mrs. Fiske, America's favorite artist, in motion pictures, marks another epoch in the history of film progress.

"Tess of the D'Urbervilles," Thomas Hardy's dramatic story, made famous on the stage by Mrs. Fiske's portrayal, and just recently produced by the Famous Players Film Company, is one of the choicest subjects ever introduced into motion pictures.

The combination of one of the foremost actresses of the day, and the most noted work of a famous novelist should serve to place motion pictures on a more important plane than it has ever before occupied.

This great feature will be shown at 2.30 in the afternoon; 7 and 9 at night.

SONG—Love You Dear, and Only You—Gustave Linder.

Miss Marguerite Bassett Mother's Day—Koselone is a screaming comedy in which Patty has a thrilling encounter with two boys.

SONG—In Autumn Time—Jacob Miller.

Miss Marguerite Bassett Exaggeration—Donahu—Two Reels.

A thrilling drama of Puritan days. A massive production accurately costumed in the garb of the period, with acting of exceptional merit.

Matinee 2.30. Evening 7.00. Saturday evening 6.30.

I WONDER

What that lady clerk on Vaughan street is going to do with all the trout she says he will bring back from Lake Winnepesaukee?

If anybody has really had a look at the plans for the new Pisataqua river bridge?

Why many of the mayoralty mentioned candidates are shy about losing their lid in the political ring?

If the report that Ward Four will again furnish a Republican candidate for mayor is worth looking into?

When the police department will get what it ought to have—an auto patrol and ambulance?

If such an addition to the department would not be a saving in auto hire when necessary, and a cut in the cost of maintaining the ambulance as at present?

If that resident of Wilder street has given up hunting for his stray kitten?

If that bunch doing the Knowies stunt in the woods at Newington will stand for a photograph?

Why they don't move across the river to Ells where the apple crop is good?

When that party of nurses will start on the European trip?

How City Auditor Murray likes his municipal domicile on the second floor of the city building?

Why the sealer of weights and measures has not been located in the building somewhere?

If he has not waited long enough for a carpet covered corner somewhere in the local house of parliament?

Why the city council cannot conveniently establish him in some of that spare room in the attic?

Who holds the blue ribbon for smelt fishing along the docks?

Who believes that the navy yard workmen will all drive far west of work at the station the coming winter?

Why all the holes in the asphalt paving were not filled up while the job was on?

How the toll bridge question is coming out?

If the Chief Engineer of the New Castle fire department will pick out a new fire fighting brigade when the town gets the water service from this city?

Why the chief has not long ago captured one of the surplus handbills in Portsmouth?

What he will do with the buckets of his present department when up-to-date fire fighting is established there?

The revenue cutter has been on nearly a week in search of the hull, which she located during the storm of Wednesday last.

FRICK DENIES BIG GIFT TO SON

Calls Story of $12,000,000 and $2,000,000 Presents Preposterous

Pittsburgh, Oct. 17.—Henry Clay Frick while on a visit to Pittsburgh today, had his attention called to public reports that he had presented to his son, Childs Frick, $12,000,000, and the latter's bride $2,000,000 immediately after the wedding in Baltimore last Tuesday, which he asserted were fabrications and the source of much annoyance.

"The story of my alleged presents to my son and his wife, of money," he said, "are so preposterously ridiculous that I feel confident they will fail to do the injury to them and to me that the author maliciously designed."

OBSEQUIES

The body of Henry Plummer who died in New York was brought here today. Saturday, and services held at Ham's chapel by Rev. William P. Stanley, pastor of the Middle street Baptist church. Burial was in the South cemetery under the direction of Undertaker O. W. Ham.

AMERICANS PROUD OF SOUSA

Every true American feels a glow of pride in his countrymen when he hears of the recognition of their great achievements in foreign lands. It was John Philip Sousa who took his famous band around the world, giving concerts in every musical centre, before the most critical audience, beating down all prejudices and winning the universal verdict for himself, and his musicians of being unequalled. It would be well to bear in mind that the same Sousa and his band will be here at the Portsmouth Theatre, on Friday afternoon, October 24.

The soloists are, Miss Virginia Root, soprano; Miss Margot Gluck, violinist, and Herbert L. Clark, cornetist.

The Herald Hears

That Dan Cupid nailed a lot of victims this month so far.

That it is estimated that 150 dozen of smelts were caught off one of the Water street docks on Friday.

That some men would rather fish than eat.

That this is the case with a Somerset man.

That he likes it so much that he comes to this city every Sunday, rain or shine and puts in the whole day at the Appleton dock.

That the Keystone members are wondering why no outing again this year.

That they don't care so much about the good time that goes with the outing so long as the president can elect himself to office once more.

That Bill says the club is not a backnumber but simply want a new camp.

That Ward three Democrats are sparing for a council candidate.

That Representative Jolly Moran is on the list as one of the voters of that district that may be heard from.

That the machinery to be installed in the new plant of the Portsmouth Brewing Co. will be the latest thing in that line.

That fishing lines and poles were numerous on the south end docks on Friday.

That not less than 25 were hooking up the smelts on one wharf at one time.

That the story of finding a body in the river off Greenacre on Friday, proved a wild rumor.

That three policemen in the town of Farmington, N. H. recently pulled a house in that town and found me liquor in the ice box.

That they arrested the proprietor on the charge of selling without a license.

That the three cops got in bad on the job.

That the man claimed that he consumed a gallon of booze every two months.

That the judge told the cops that he had a right to his morning's morning, and the police had no right to grab the wet goods.

That the three cops got sore and threw up their job.
